

World Football League Five Card Subset Review

By Bob Swick

A new five card special series set of Ken Stabler in a Birmingham Americans uniform, Randy Johnson of the Hawaiians, James Scott of the Chicago

Fire, Ed Marshall of the Memphis Southmen and one of my favorite players King Corcoran of the Philadelphia Bell are the new works of Greg Allred, Richie Franklin, Bill Jones, and Willie O'Burke, WFL historians and collectors. Continuing with their massive undertaking of what is now fast becoming the most authoritative physical printed history of the World Football League via an extensive and far reaching football card set they have added this gem of a five card special series to their works.

This new series features these five players with different photos from what has been featured in the regular series. The complete master set collection of the WFL Football cards includes 4-70 card series along with a 20 card Die-cut logo series, a 35 card Quarterback series and now this special 5 card series. I am confident that the future series being planned on will live up to these previous printed gems.

You can find ordering information on this set at either their website WFLFootballCards.com or by checking out their ad in this issue. Again this new five card special series are a must have in my opinion for any football card collector and collection. Collectors seeking something new and fresh for their collections should collect the entire 340 card collection of the World Football League.
